

ABSTRACT

Methods are provided for preventing the development of autoimmune diseases in susceptible subjects and for prolonging acceptance of tissue transplants by administration of an agonist of the T cell CD28 co-stimulatory receptor.